Junction Australia welcomes new board directors

South Australian community sector leader Junction Australia is pleased to announce the appointment of three new Directors. Richard Osborne, Fairlie Delbridge and Tim Jackson will bring a wealth of experience from multiple sectors, to the Junction Australia board.

Junction Australia Chair Mike Canny today announced the new Directors have been appointed for a three-year term.

Richard Osborne is a property developer and the Director of numerous companies including Arcadian Communities and Tanti Osborne Projects. His previous roles include General Manager of Delfin Lend Lease (SA) and General Manager Realty Services Australia – Delfin Lend Lease.

“Joining the Board of Junction Australia provides an opportunity to contribute to a dynamic community service organisation, in addition to gaining a greater experience and understanding of community needs and how society can respond to those in need,” Richard said.

Fairlie Delbridge is a Director of Cminus Sustainable Spaces, a unique business focussed on facilitating strategic, innovative and sustainable outcomes in the built environment through its consultancy and development capabilities.

“I am inspired to utilise my commercial skills and expertise to contribute to the social enterprise sector. I also have a passion for creating a voice and opportunities for the most vulnerable in our society,” Fairlie said.

Tim Jackson has worked extensively in local government in South Australia and Victoria. He has previously held the position of Chief Executive Officer for the City of Playford in South Australia. Tim is also the President of Volunteering Australia, Chair of Volunteering SA / NT and a Director for Lighthouse Disability.
